High Frequency Site Words

High Frequency words are those words that appear most in printed material.

Learning to recognize frequency words by sight is crucial to developing fluency in reading. Reading efficiently is greatly increased when sight words are recognized in seconds.

High Frequency words are more difficult for students to read because they are more abstract words that students can't apply basic phonic skills to decode.

As tutors we want to improve sight word recognition in order to enhance the student's chance of getting to the end of a sentence in time to remember how it began.

Below are assorted activities you can use to increase sight word recognition:

1. WORDO: played like BINGO, students are to fill their boards with various sight words. This will help strengthen word recognition.
2. Word books: students can create small sight word books by folding and stapling construction paper. This will help students to both read and write various sight words.
3. Flashcards: Write sight words on index cards. These cards can then be used for a number of activities.
 - a. Jeopardy
 - b. Memory
 - c. Swat!
4. Word detective: Encourage students to be high frequency word detectives. Students can locate sight words around the school.
5. Word Search: create a word search including various sight words. Encourage students to locate as many words as possible.
